You gave, here’s what we did with it.
Dear Friend,

Thank you! With your help over the last year SAY provided housing to 131 youth. We offered counseling services to more than 300 families. And we helped 196 kids find jobs!

This year, we focus on dreams. For homeless youth, their dreams include finding a safe place to live. Over the past 6 years, we have seen a dramatic increase in the number of homeless youth here in Sonoma County. From 268 counted in 2009, to 701 counted in 2011, there are now 1,128 homeless youth on our Sonoma County streets.

As a community, we can turn these numbers around. SAY hopes to use the former Warrack Hospital, vacant since 2008 for affordable housing and services for Sonoma County’s homeless and former foster youth. We are calling it the Dream Center because our youth deserve a chance to work toward their dreams.

To dreams,

Matt Martin, Executive Director

SAY was founded in 1971. That’s 42 years of supporting Sonoma County youth and families. 42 years of counseling, mentoring, advocacy. 42 years of hope, support and opportunities.

In the last 42 years, we’ve helped over 35,500 youth right here in Sonoma County.
No young person grows up dreaming of being homeless. They dream about becoming firefighters, teachers, chefs and community leaders. They dream of going to school and getting an education. They dream of saving up and buying their own home someday. They dream of having stability. At SAY, it's our job to help young people achieve those dreams.

This year, counselors in our Medi-Cal Counseling Clinic helped 203 young people overcome depression, abuse, anger issues, and more. 62% of clients participating in therapy demonstrated a decrease in social, judgment, and legal problems (Functional Impairments) at school and home.
Last year, SAY provided jobs and paid internships for 196 youth.

Marisol was the first person in her family to graduate from high school, and she plans to continue pursuing her educational dreams all the way to law school.

Through mentoring and one-on-one case management, we focus on helping young people gain the skills and experience they need to find a job, continue their education, and start a career.
We get results

You gave, here’s what we did with it:

• We reduce homelessness. 80% of the residents at Tamayo Village moved into permanent housing.

• We reunite homeless youth with their families. 94% of the teens who stayed at our Coffee House Teen Shelter move into stable housing.

• We help families heal. Counselors and therapists helped 335 youth and families overcome depression, abuse, anger issues and more.

• We reduce unemployment. We provided jobs and paid internships for 196 youth.

You Give Kids Hope

The Hope Society is a group of individuals who have committed to supporting the youth SAY serve for five years. Members of the Hope Society pledge a minimum of $1,000 for five years to support SAY’s operations.

This pledge to stand by SAY’s youth tells them that they are supported by a caring community who believe their dreams matter.

We are profoundly grateful to the following members of the SAY Hope Society:
